 - 2) For smooth and safe start operations, the organizers will allocate a particular waiting zone at the start for marathon runners simply based on the best time for the past 3 years or the finishing time the applicants estimate at the time of application regardless of their JAAF registration. Those who do not put their estimated finishing time will start from the end of the queue.

Possible Interruption

During the race, if anything urgent happens including an accident or fire, emergency vehicles will possibly be passing anywhere on the race course. In this case, the event staff will ask runners to stop running.

No Fancy Dress

The marathon course includes narrow roads and unpaved riverbank. On the road we will stop runners when emergency vehicles are passing by, control the runway so that pedestrians can cross the street. Runners are supposed to pay attention to all the places they are running, and we ask you to wear the clothes that are easy to move. Running in fancy dress is fun and somewhat livens up the event. However, it may limit your move and make other runners and the audience on the road uncomfortable. Therefore, in this event, we prohibit participants from running in fancy dress. Also, we do not allow you to wear and display any designs that indicate certain company names and products, trademarks, and other advertisements that are considered to be advertisement activities.

Race course uniting dozens of charms of Kyoto

The race course runs along seven UNESCO world cultural heritage sites (Tenryu-ji Temple, Ninna-ji Temple, Ryoan-ji Temple, Kinkaku-ji Temple, Kamigamo-jinja Shrine, Shimogamo-jinja Shrine, and Ginkaku-ji Temple), and all of the "Gozan" (the five mountains famous for spectacular "Okuri-bi bonfires") are visible on the course.

Kyoto International Conference Center which was the site of COP3 (The 3rd United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change) and where the Kyoto Protocol was ratified, is also located along the course.

Every runner will feel the soul and spirit of Kyoto.

Donations for the Great East Japan Earthquake Reconstruction Support Program

Kyoto Marathon 2014 will implement the Great East Japan Earthquake Reconstruction Support Program. We accept your application for voluntary donation at the time of entry application. As a result of the lottery, when your participation is confirmed, you are requested to make the donation in units of 500 yen together with the payment of your entry fee. Please be advised that your applied donation cannot be cancelled. Also, please note that there is no relation between the lottery and the donation.

It is projected that the donation made by the participants will go to the emergency response headquarters of disaster-struck local authorities via the Kyoto Shimbun Newspaper Social Welfare Foundation.
